

The Office for Postdoctoral Scholars
The Graduate School of Biomedical Sciences
The Graduate Student Body Committee

Present a Professional Development Seminar

Making the Most of Your Presentation

Jean-luc Doumont, Ph.D.

Jean-luc Doumont, Ph.D., trains scientists, engineers, business people, and other rational minds across the world in effective communication using an original approach that contrasts sharply with traditional methods.

As an encore to last year's acclaimed talk, "Structuring Your Research Paper," he will present a systematic approach to preparing and delivering an effective oral presentation.

Jean-luc is the author of Trees, Maps, and Theorems, a critically acclaimed book on effective communication for rational minds, and of the Nature series English Communication for Scientists on nature.com.

Monday, February 3, 2014

10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

PLEASE NOTE THIS IS A 2-HOUR PRESENTATION

Amphitheater I, S2-102

Refreshments will be served